

International Education & Immigration Expo

Madurai's 1st International Education & Immigration Expo a grand success

Overseas Education and Immigration Aspirants fortified themselves with right information from the right sources at the 'International Education and Immigration Expo 2013' - an event organized by Dave Consultancy, a renowned name in this field.

Representatives from 60 universities abroad and immigration advisors and agencies participate in this event which is aimed to provide maximum exposure regarding overseas opportunities and bring the aspirants closer to the experts. Exhibitors represented various

Students, parents, immigration aspirants started visiting in huge numbers (many came prepared with their documents) minutes before the doors were thrown open before them at around 10:30 am. M Ramesh, who wants to pursue his Post Graduation in Robotics, was very impressed with the wide variety of options presented to him by the exhibitors. "I never thought I would get all my queries answered so easily at one place. Now I know what best suits me and how to proceed further for error free quicker results"

Universities, college representatives and immigration agencies from various countries including America, UK, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Singapore, Malaysia, France, Germany, Dubai etc are present to offer their courses and services to suit every aspirant's need.

"I am quite impressed with the overwhelming response. Kudos to the Organising team. We are seeing a growing trend among students from South Tamilnadu opting for overseas education" said an exhibitor doing consulting services for Education in Australia.

Though majority of the students prefer taking up post graduate courses in Engineering, Computer Science and Business Administration, preference for under graduation abroad is growing and field of interests now ranges from fashion technology to genetic engineering.

Immigration aspirants also find the expo very useful as immigration experts representing countries like Canada, Australia, Denmark etc. provided wide range of information such as current immigration policies, Visa procedures, skill-sets in demand etc. "I could gather all information required to plan my immigration through reliable sources" opined Mr. K.S Senthil Kumar an Immigration aspirant.

There are country specific seminar sessions being conducted for the visitors. There are stalls put up by institutions for differently-abled also. There are stalls exhibited by other service providers for loans, Forex, Insurance etc. "Truly this event is first of its kind for overseas aspirants from South Tamilnadu. Thanks to educational institutions, print media and exhibitors for supporting the event and making it a great success" said Ms. Shweta Martin, Director, Dave Consultancy- the chief co-ordinator of this event.

An excellent, current and on the pulse event addressing very pertinent aspects effecting Education in Abroad. Can't believe it was free!

Fantastic industry event, really is no other event that brings such a quality and diversity of University together in one place discussing Higher Education

Attending this year's International Education Immigration Expo 2013 was an excellent opportunity to learn about trends in higher education and to network with like-minded people.

I just wanted to drop you a line to say congratulations to [Dave Consultancy] for a successful event! It was a very well organized and fruitful fair. Thank you.

Students In The City Firm Chess w Madurai

The World Chess Championship in Chennai drew the attention of even people who are ignorant about chess. Simultaneously, interest in this game has risen among people of all ages in the region, though school students are fewer. Magnus Carlsen is unlikely to dampen their enthusiasm.

Muralidharan, a class 7 student from Keren matriculation school on the outskirts of Madurai, is thrilled after he was taken to see a game between Anand and Carlsen. "I was under the impression that the players will be deeply absorbed in their game without even batting an eye. It was surprising to see how relaxed they are while playing, though concentrating totally in the game," the boy commented. Along with him, three more students and two members from the school had gone to Chennai.

Several schools here had taken efforts to make arrangements so that students keen on chess can watch at least a game of the Championship directly. A R Ramanathan, correspondent of Dolphin matriculation school, said "the Championship has kindled interest in chess among many students. The school has been giving a lot of thrust on chess. It sponsors all the trophies given to the winners of the tournaments organised by the state chess association."

M Thirunagalingam, chess coach of the school, lauded the state government's efforts in organising school-level competitions ahead of the championship. "Such promotional steps taken by the government have indeed helped. The government also mandates holding of chess tournaments in schools regularly. It will certainly help in creating grand masters and competent players in chess, Thirunagalingam.

Donald James Moir, a UK national teaching chess in Keren schools, said "I didn't know students find chess more engaging. They show lot of interest in the game and they are learning the nuances of the game."
